- Arthur Carmazzi-

PROGRAM OBJECTIVES

Created by Top Ten Leadership Guru, Arthur Carmazzi the CBCI is a tool that identifies an individual's genetic brain processing inclusive of additional learned flexibility and area where one may have difficulty in communicating with others. It is administered by a licensed facilitator who “directs” participants to a foundational mind state before proceeding with the inventory. By identifying the fundamental patterns in the way our brain genetically functions, we overcome misunderstanding, conflict, and wastage of individual and group potential. Awareness of the color of our brain gives us the means to maximize our capacity to act intelligently, it turbo charges our natural gifts and use them to maximize our ability to develop a “software” for our brain for greater competencies across many disciplines. Each color makes up about 60% of the way we function in our world. One color differs from other colors in the way they process information, learn, communicate, problem solve, act and react in teams and become stressed. Each color has its own requirements for learning, developing and functioning. Each has unique gifts and is given to specific ways of perception, thus creating a unique way for each person to develop within their environment.
